outside economic pressure built up during the 1990s, in the form of consumer boycotts of companies doing business in myanmar, limited us economic sanctions, and "selective purchasing" laws by cities.