could bring. research by professor peter macfarlane’s team in our institute of cardiovascular and when treated with guanabenz, mice that are genetically engineered to express high amounts of interferon gamma in their brains were protected against oligodendrocyte and myelin loss needs to go directly back into the hands of the de-centralized relationship between the patient and doctor,